THE SHADOWS THAT COME

The passing of Mrs. William E. Chapin, in the early week, brought sorrow to many homes, and shadows, which have quieted the life of the social community. She was Miss Nannie Nicolson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nicolson.

As beautiful as was Mrs. Chapin, in her daylightness, grace and charm, the center always of admiring friends, the qualities which made her beloved were those which this beauty but typified.

The light in her eyes, the soft note in her voice, even the gestures of her pretty little hands, were expressions of a quality which predominated within her—that of exquisite gentleness.

In her childhood, in her young ladyhood, in her queenly acceptance of the serious responsibilities of life, there was ever the gentleness, the dignity, the reserve, which bespoke the stronger, deeper graces, those which ennoble the character of woman. In the hearts of those who idolized her, in the hold she had upon her friends, there has been left a picture—the impression that will ever live—of the beautiful young woman, and the one supremely lovable and gentle. There was the softer, subtler light in her presence, which was more soothing than sunshine; and the radiance of the roses, and the purity and fragrance of the lilies as they stand sentinel about her as she sleeps, proclaim the influence she made felt before she passed from this into—Eternal Life.

This month, on the 24th, the Queen of May will be crowned at the Sign of the Wrens Nest, at West End, the ceremonies being preceded by a brilliant children's floral parade, and a beautiful May pole dance on the lawn at Snap Bean farm.

Much interest has been centered in the choosing of a queen, and it is safe to say that this year she will be selected from the many beautiful young girls of the north side. The queen when determined upon will be asked to select her own attendants.

One of the most interesting features of the entertainment will be the children's floral parade, which will precede the coronation and May pole dance at the home of the late Mr. Harris. There will be generous prizes offered the children entering the parade by the ladies of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, who are at the head of the festival, for best decorated, prettiest cart, pony or doll carriage which will be in the parade. The parade will begin at 10 o'clock, and proceed out Peachtree and Whitehall streets to Trinity church, where the children will be taken in automobiles or on the street cars to West End and the Sign of the Wrens Nest, where the concluding festivities will be held.

Already hundreds of children have signified their intention of taking part in the festival, and a special invitation will be extended the children of the public schools to join the parade, wearing the school colors and a wreath.
